

CHANDIGARH POLICE

STANDING ORDER NO. 11/2002

SUB: FORMATION OF SPECIAL JUVENILE POLICE UNIT UNDER THE JUVENILE JUSTICE (CARE & PROTECTION OF CHILDREN) ACT, 2000.

It is being increasingly recognised that the children are the most vulnerable group in any population and need special care and protection. The Constitution of India imposes responsibility on the State to ensure that needs of children are met and their basic human rights are protected. Enactment of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act – 2000 (hereinafter mentioned as Act) seeks to achieve this objective and amends the legal position relating to the Juvenile in conflict with law and children in need of care and protection.

The Act imposes certain duties on police and it envisages creation of certain institutions including Juvenile Justice Board, Special Juvenile Police Unit and Juvenile Officers. These are intended to ensure due attention of state apparatus to juveniles who come in conflict with law or other children requiring protection receive due attention of State apparatus. This Standing Order intends to make police officers aware of the salient provisions of the Act and the duties imposed on them while dealing with children including those in conflict with law.
